Doctor Degrees Okayed

The chief executives of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, the Illinois Board of Higher Education, St. Louis University and Washington University announced Friday the implementation of a program for Ph.D. instruction that cuts across state lines and overcomes a traditional barrier between public and private institutions.

"The three universities will be co-equal partners in the operation of doctoral programs in business, education and the fine arts," said Dr. John S. Rendleman, president of SIUE, in a news conference at the St. Louis Press Club.

"There is much planning and coordination yet to be achieved. However, it may be possible to begin the co-operative doctoral programs by September 1973."

Rendleman said the three universities will exchange students, faculties and academic resources on a contractual basis.

St. Louis and Washington Universities, both private institutions, currently have Ph.D. programs. SIUE has no doctoral program, but has several thousand students doing graduate work at the master's degree level—and has many faculty members qualified for Ph.D. instruction.

Doctoral degrees obtained through the cooperative program probably will be awarded jointly by the three universities.

James Holderman, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, said he will recommend that $250,000 be included in the SIUE operating budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973, to contract for the cooperative program.

Holderman said he will recommend another $250,000 to plan for a "problem-solving institute" at Parks College of Aeronautical Technology in St. Louis, Ill. The college currently is owned by St. Louis University.

Market Staff Triples Gifts to United Fund

The United Fund is not a "lost cause" if the task is approached directly and with determination to succeed, UF backers commented during the weekend after a review of a "second effort" at the Schermer Brothers Market, 1125 Madison Ave., Madison.

The second round of solicitation at the supermarket was handled by United Fund and UF agency personnel, by the Retail Clerk's union and by the owners and managers.

The result? The employees tripled their level of giving to the Tri-Cities Area United Fund. And the original amount which was tripled had represented a substantial increase over a year ago.

Shared Revenue on Way

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

Cities and townships in the Quad-City area and other parts of

Madison County should begin receiving checks for federal revenue sharing allocations early this week for a county-wide total of $1,890,297, according to the Washington, D. C., Office of Cong. Melvin Price (D-East St. Louis).

Cong. Price announced that the first checks for revenue sharing allotments were placed in the mail at Washington Friday.

Of the total of $1,890,297 scheduled to be distributed among Madison County tax agencies eligible for such funds, $251,126 will be sent to the city of Granite City, while Granite City Township will receive $39,575.

All payments which are to be completed this month will be for the first half of the 1972 year.

Cong. Price said he had been informed that payments for the second half of the 1972 year, which will be similar in amounts to those being mailed this month, are to be made in January.

The congressman said allocations revised from those announced earlier include $6,000 for the city of Venice and $45,635 for the city of Madison. Ponton Beach is to receive $3,584.

Venice Township is to receive $34,050 and Nameoki Township $22,574. The allotment for Chouteau Township is $13,965.

On the basis of these figures, the total allocation for cities and townships in the Quad-City area amounts to $486,014 for the first six months of 1972.

Assuming little change in payments for the second six months, Quad-City taxing agencies will receive approximately $872,000 for the full year of 1972.

The Madison County government is to receive an allotment of $417,335 for the first half of the year, Cong. Price said.

Prod City on Delay In Treatment Plant

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

A cooperative effort between the federal and state Environmental Protection Agencies and Granite City will be made in a effort to complete plans for and start construction of a secondary sewage treatment plant here as soon as possible.

The pact of cooperation was pledged by members of the three groups during a pollution hearing Thursday afternoon in Collinsville at which the federal EPA was attempting to determine why plans for the Granite City treatment facilities were so far behind schedule.

Ray Haller, vice-president of M. W. Engineers and Architects of St. Louis, the city's engineering firm for the plant, said that the city has been "going around in circles" attempting to gain permits for construction and a federal grant.

The permits and grant, sought from the U.S. EPA, will not be issued until the project is certified by the Illinois EPA. And the Illinois EPA will not certify the city's program because the city is unable to meet the required completion dates.

The only way for the state will approve the program is if the Illinois Pollution Control Board grants variances for the deadlines the city will be unable to meet, Haller explained.

The ICPCB will not act on the variance requests until it is determined for what capacity flow the plant should be designed.

The question of capacity arose when Corn Sweeteners, Inc., closed its wet corn milling operation here in October, thus halting about half of the flow presently treated by the plant.

The city had designed a facility to treat 23 million gallons of waste per day, which the state EPA and the ICPCB say is too large, particularly in light of the Corn Sweeteners closing.

"It now appears that the proposed plant may be oversized and its cost-effectiveness is therefore questionable," the state EPA informed the city in a letter last week.

Corn Sweeteners retains a lease on the Granite City facility and has indicated it will return to production here if it becomes feasible, Haller explained.

Leon Scroggins, the city's attorney, said that in view of the questions as to what size the plant should be—and the inaction by the ICPCB and the state EPA on petitions and requests—the city has been unable to make progress toward meeting the pollution deadlines.

The city feels it is ready to begin construction of a 23-million-gallon-per-day capacity secondary treatment plant as soon as funds and permits are available, Scroggins indicated. The plant would cost an estimated $10,316,000.

The Southwest Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission has approved a treatment plant of this size.

Albert Wilmarth, a SIMAPAC planner, said at the hearing that his agency did not feel the size of the facility should be reduced—because of Corn Sweeteners' indication that it may resume operation.

"It doesn't seem that you should design a 20-year plant on the presumption of luck," Wilmarth commented.

The hearing officer, Walter A. Romanek, attorney for the U.S. EPA, Region V, Chicago, explained that the city has been issued a 180-day notice to comply with federal sewage treatment deadlines or face federal court action.

"Nothing would please us more than to avoid the arena of the federal courts," Romanek remarked.

He said the notice will expire April 11, 1973, at which time the U.S. EPA will assess the city's progress and determine if court action is necessary.

"We are seeking voluntary action by the city," Romanek said, indicating that with the

What do you select at Christmas for the dog who has everything?

This is the problem facing Miss Doris Blacklock, 1611 Spruce St., owner of Stormy Lynn, a five-year-old cocker and collie.

She already has received a balloon and candy from Santa, and Miss Blacklock plans to add a T-bone steak to Miss Stormy's gift list. Last year, the pet received a coat and "shoes."

Efforts of members of Tri-City American Legion Post 113 and the Auxiliary in remodeling their new home at 1825 State St. were unveiled officially for about 400 visitors Saturday with ribbon cutting and dedication ceremonies and a luncheon-dance.

The 55 by 120 foot structure which until recently housed the Seiberg Furniture Co., has been made into a modern Colonial motif with a color scheme of green, gold and brown.

It has been sectioned to provide a main hall, a club room lounge, a card room, a game and music area and a modern kitchen.

The ribbon was cut in noon ceremonies by Mayor Donald Partridge and Mrs. Bonnie Jao, Auxiliary president, before a crowd of members, out-of-town Legionnaires and visitors.

The major had left his hospital room in St. Louis that morning for the grand opening

'Foot in Door' for Physical Education Building at SIUE

The Illinois Board of Higher Education last week approved $2,044,500 in capital budget funds for Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1973.

The board of trustees of Southern Illinois University has requested $19,149,692 for SIUE. The scaled-down figure will not come from the Board of Higher Education to the General Assembly and the governor.

Of the total approved by the Board of Higher Education, $895,250,000 is for the possible purchase of Parks College of Aeronautical Technology at Cahokia from St. Louis University.

The Board of Higher Education approved part of the university's second-priority item, remodeling upper floors of the SIUE East St. Louis center in the former Broadway Hotel. The BHE allocated $90,000 for remodeling to provide additional classroom space.

The top priority item in the SIUE request, $4.4 million for a physical education building, was not funded by the Board of Higher Education. The board did not include, however, $88,000 in planning money for a physical education building. SIUE currently has no indoor physical education facilities for its nearly 12,000 students.

B. D. Hudgens, vice-president for business affairs, said he is pleased with the planning allocation. "The planning money would allow us to produce bid documents," Hudgens said. "It means we can get a foot in the door."

The Board of Higher Education also approved $50,000 in planning money for the School of Dental Medicine on the Alton campus and $52,000 in planning money to expand the Heating and Refrigeration Plant.

Hudgens said the planning money for the dental school would be used to design a new building that would allow an increase in class size to the current 24 students per year to approximately 50 per year.

SIUE accepted its first class of dental students last fall. As the first dental school in Illinois outside Cook County, SIUE hopes to alleviate the critical shortage of dentists in many portions of the state.

The planning allocation for the heating and refrigeration facility is in lieu of an SIUE request of $2.4 million to expand the plant. Hudgens said expansion must be completed by the end of 1975 to enable the university to provide adequate heating and cooling for two new classroom buildings expected to be ready for use by fall 1975.

Planning funds requested by SIUE but not allocated by the Board of Higher Education include money for an addition to Lovejoy Library, for additional science laboratories and for a learning resources center.

Hudgens said $21,278 requested to plan facilities to house the nursing program was rejected because there are still unused funds from the current fiscal year for that purpose. The Board of Higher Education rejected SIUE requests of $4.7 million for a fine arts building and $1.47 million to provide facilities for a university educational television station.

SIUE also received no funds for site improvements out of a total request in that category of $621,000. That money would have allowed the university to improve roadways, parking lots, sidewalks and drainage and carry out other miscellaneous projects.

In the category of remodeling and rehabilitation, the Board of Higher Education recommended $100,000 to remodel parts of the dental school campus, $60,000 to remodel areas of the Communications Building and $16,550 to remodel areas of the Science Building.

Funds to remodel the Wagner supporting services building at SIUE were denied, according to the office of Jack R. Clifford, county building official.

In the category of utilities, the Board of Higher Education recommended $40,000 for completion of a Central Campus Utility Control System, $20,000 to install a standby pump in case of fire and $15,000 to modify the electrical lighting distribution system. Several other requests in the utilities category were not approved.

Illinois Taxpayers Will Make Up Lost Federal Aid

Copley News Service
Springfield—Illinois taxpayers will have to pay an additional $13 million for welfare in the next six months starting Jan. 1, to offset cuts in federal welfare funds which will be withheld because the state did not meet requirements for checking recipients.

Edward T. Weaver, director of the state department of the public aid, said the state has not yet received the new requirements but, as soon as they are received, will send "fluid, exact and documented objections which will be filed as soon as they are received in Washington and nothing will ever be done about them."

The director said he and his staff have "some reservations" about the program which is based on a period several months before the new requirements, and therefore seems to be retroactive.

The entire federal program, he said, is part of a federal plan "to gouge the states for every buck possible."

Illinois is one of 21 states which will have funds cut back for failure to review at least 80% of a sample of some hundreds of cases, for ineligibility and overpayment.

The federal standards allow 4% error in cases of ineligibility, Weaver said, adding, "I've tried to find out why it is 4% instead of three or five or six, but I can't. It's just 4% and that's it."

Found 6% Error
During the period from July to December 1971 the department did review something like 81% of the sample section, he said, and found a little over 6% error in eligibility.

One reason for failure to check the full 80% required, the director said, was that the particular period selected by federal authorities happened to be a period of extreme growth in public assistance cases in Illinois. At the same time, he said, the department was not able to add staff rapidly enough to offset the caseload growth.

The errors in eligibility, he said, arose because of the shortage, the very complex nature of the federally-mandated programs, and the complicated grant structure used in Illinois. "So we made some errors—along with 20 other states," he said.

Weaver noted that while states usually have 30 days to respond to federal regulations, it has been deemed "in the public interest" to reduce that period to 15 days in this case. In normal events he said, it would be a week to 10 days before the department even receives the regulations it must carry out, and with Christmas mailing complications, "we may not even get the regulations within that 15 day period."

Programs Unaffected
The federal decision to top off $889 million in federal welfare payments among the 21 states will not affect any programs in Illinois, Weaver said, since his department is not allowed to change its programs, and cannot withhold aid from cases just because the federal money is not forthcoming.

"It just means that the Illinois taxpayers are going to have to pay another $13 million to make up for it," he said.

In Washington the department of health, education and welfare said the new program would, if entirely successful, remove some 700,000 persons from lists of Aid for Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and another 147,000 from the rolls of aged, blind and disabled persons on welfare, among the 21 states.

Weaver said that while the federal government also objected to the numbers of overpayments found in the sample cases checked, it took no note of the number of underpayments, which he said usually just about equal in number the cases in which errors were made which result in overpayments.

Most of the actions which will be covered in the new regulations, he said, are in the area of extensive reviews of cases, and studies which are expected to lead to simplification of grant procedures which should eliminate some errors.

State Agrees To SUE Programs for Parks

The proposed establishment of engineering, technology and social problems research programs at Parks College of Aeronautical Technology in Cahokia by Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was supported by the Illinois Board of Higher Education last week.

The BHE issued an agreement letter which outlined suggestions for future development at SIUE. One point where SIUE President John S. Rendleman and the BHE differed is on the establishment of doctoral programs at Edwardsville or Cahokia.

The BHE recommendation said that all doctoral work should be undertaken at Washington or St. Louis universities, at least for five years.

Other suggestions by the BHE in last week's letter included integrating the basic sciences staff at the SIUE School of Dental Medicine at Alton into the regular Edwardsville campus science staff, and the full utilization of the urban and environmental science programs of St. Louis and Washington universities before SIUE requests funds for such departments.

Almost Christmas—Time To Be Swindled Again

Copley News Service
Springfield—Hot Hot Hot! You've just been swindled. At least, you stand a good chance of being victimized if you let your seasonal good feelings drown your year-end-of-the-year common sense.

For example, this package comes in the mail, unordered. It contains some Christmas cards, not particularly great Christmas cards or even very good Christmas cards. But what the cards lack in quality, the covering letter makes up in pathos, painting the bitter plight of albino Eskimos being jeopardized by exhaust fumes from atomic submarines.

But Christmas will be a little brighter for them if you'll just keep their cards and send back a dollar or two. If you send $5 or $10, they may even get a second helping of grief on Christmas day.

Some people—quite a lot of people—may whip off a check, or stick a dollar or two in the envelope and go back to their shopping, feeling a little more like Christmas.

That little Christmas glow is anybody's going to get for their charity, except for the people who invented the little colony which doesn't exist, bought up some cheap cards and a mailing list and set up a rather successful seasonal business.

Keep as a Gift
In Illinois, this gimmick isn't seen as often as it used to be, according to George M. Schaefer, director of the consumer fraud division of the attorney general's office. The reason, he says, is current Illinois law which says that any unsolicited merchandise sent to you can be considered a gift, or, as you choose, with no obligations.

But if that play has fallen off recently, others still blossom like the Christmas rose each year.

There are, for instance, the appeals—from appealing, little urthins with collection canisters suspiciously like paper carry-out coffee containers, who show up at your door or in the shop, center, seeking contributions to brighten the holidays for out-of-work underworld organizers, or disabled plane hijackers.

Or there is the chap in what looks like a parcel delivery service uniform who rings your bell, says your neighbor ordered this package which has $25 due on it, and now your neighbor isn't home so would you sign for it and pay the $25, and then collect from your neighbor, thereby being a good chap and saving him from making a return trip.

Box of Junk
If you make the mistake of accepting, Schaefer says, you're going to wind up with a $25 box. That's all, just a box with some junk in it to give it weight. Your neighbor? He'll think it's bad enough to have such a dummy living next door, so why should he bail you out? The best rule, Schaefer says, at any time of year is never to

Snow Storms Need Not Be Dangerous to Drivers

"As all motorists in the Granite City region know from past experience, heavy snows can tie up traffic, making snow removal difficult and in some cases making it virtually impossible for emergency equipment to get through," according to Ronald J. Veizer, Chief of Police of Granite City.

Chief Veizer passed along some suggestions for driving during or after a storm based on National Safety Council research and endorsed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Various points follow:

Visibility. Keep your windows and all lights—headlights, tail-lights and directional signals—clear of ice and snow. When visibility is reduced by a storm, slow down and allow more distance between you and the car ahead. If conditions become extremely bad, pull off the road and wait for visibility to improve before going on.

Plan ahead. Even when commuting to and from work, be sure you know which routes will be cleared first. If you are planning a major trip, delay your start long enough to give road crews a chance to clear up the worst of the mess. Check weather forecasts; the highway patrol, weather bureau or automobile club will give you the latest information. While driving, listen to the radio for further bulletins.

Getting started. Practice starting in heavy snow before you get stuck. The correct technique is to turn your wheels from side to side to clear snow and slush away from the tires. Vehicles with stick shift should use second gear for starting. Drivers with automatic transmissions, start in Drive. A slow, steady start does it.

Stay on the road. Know how slick the surface really is. Away from traffic, try your brakes or make a sudden power application to find out how slippery the pavement really is. "Getting the feel of the road" is practiced regularly by good drivers whenever there is any question about traction. Plan your maneuvers well in advance to avoid skidding and loss of control.

Traction aids. Check your emergency equipment to be sure you are ready whatever the weather. Your trunk should contain a shovel, sand or rock salt, tire chains, booster cables, tow chains or straps and flares or other emergency lighting equipment.

Chief Veizer pointed out that many drivers make the same mistakes year after year. "While our street department remains ready to do all it can and keep the roadways clear, it still boils down to each motorist's responsibility to maintain his vehicle and himself in the best possible condition."

Hill First President Of New Demo Club

Tom Hill was elected the first president of the new Namoki Township Democratic Club, during the club's organizational meeting last week.

Other officers elected were Don Patrick, vice-president; Lloyd Miller Jr., secretary, and Homer Boothman, treasurer. Planning was started for a Jan. 27 fund-raising dance.

Pediatrics Residency OK'd for SIU School

The combined residency program in Pediatrics of the Southern Illinois University School of Medicine and its affiliated hospitals at Springfield, St. Johns and Memorial, has been approved by the Residency Review Committee on Pediatrics.

This national committee represents the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Board of Pediatrics, and the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association.

The three-year program will provide the necessary training leading to certification as a specialist in Pediatrics. The program will be conducted by the four full-time members of the Pediatrics faculty at the medical school and local pediatricians who are members of the school's clinical faculty.

The department will admit four residents per year for the first two years and the program will begin in July, 1973.

A Gift for the CHILD

On that first Christmas, so long ago, came strangers bearing gifts for the wondrous Child. And thus began our warm tradition of holiday giving.

This year, we are trying to relive the spirit of that first Christmas. We have asked our employees to imagine the Christ Child has been born this Christmas. We asked them to present a Gift for the Child. A gift, created or bought, that shows the depth of their feeling at the coming of this miracle.

These gifts will be on display beneath our lobby Christmas tree. You will be surprised at the ingenuity, variety and exquisite beauty of their selections.

And, just in time for Christmas, these gifts will be distributed among the less fortunate children in the Tri-Cities by the Salvation Army.

And if you would like to submit a gift, we will display it underneath our tree as your token of the true revival of the holiday spirit.

Black Dialect Is Analyzed, Called Natural, Meaningful

There's nothing grammatically wrong with using a double negative in the English language—particularly when speaking black dialect, according to Prof. Theresa Love of the English department at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

A study newly completed by Prof. Love entitled "Identifying the Morphological and Syntactic Features of the Black Dialect" deals with the word formation and sentence structure of such dialect.

In 1971, SIUE received a grant from the Bureau of Educational Professional Development of the United States Office of Education to develop materials designed to help pre-service and in-service teachers identify features of the black dialect.

Materials developed through the grant consist of a set of audio tapes with selected speech features and an accompanying guide for use with the tapes.

Five-hundred children at the intermediate elementary grade level were selected to help in the taping.

"We used intermediate elementary school children because we thought that maturation problems might appear in the speech of younger children would be absent in this group," Prof. Love said.

Many of the children who helped in the taping were from the East St. Louis school district.

"An overwhelming number of respondents of the SIUE project are descendants of persons who migrated to East St. Louis from various areas of the South—particularly from Mississippi and Arkansas—after World War II," Prof. Love said.

According to Prof. Love, the migratory pattern of blacks who left the South from Mississippi and Arkansas extended northward in a straight line, to Missouri, Illinois and Michigan.

"The point here is to show that the speech of these second and third generation descendants of Southern migrants who settled here might have implications for the speech pattern of other black students presently located in a large part of the U. S.," Prof. Love said.

One of the main objectives of Prof. Love's study was to help the general public recognize the black dialect as a natural linguistic phenomena.

"There is nothing wrong with using a double negative in the black dialect—in fact, many times it makes as much sense to blacks as using the general word structure," she said.

"Someone can say, for instance, 'he wasn't no man,' and it makes as much sense grammatically to blacks as someone saying, 'he wasn't any man,'" Prof. Love explained.

These are other word formation differences, that teachers and the public as well should recognize, she believes. "In the black dialect, noun and pronoun possessives are dropped, as in 'my son,' instead of the general form, 'my son's.'"

Prof. Love and her assistants in the project, Gordon Wood and Wayland Van Syoc, both of the SIUE English department, found there were enough people who speak black English to study their English as a distinct speech community.

They also found there is systematic variation in the kind of English which black people speak—and that people who speak the black dialect frequently alternate between standard English practices and those of the black dialect.

"We hope that through the dialect study and the development of the teaching aids teachers and others as well will begin to recognize it as a natural and meaningful pattern of speech," Prof. Love concludes.

AUTO VANDALISM

Warrior Dual Mat Victories Up Undefeated Streak to 25

Granite City High School's wrestling squad upped its record of consecutive victories to 25 Saturday by defeating Bloomington and Decatur Eisenhower in a double dual meet here.

Granite City won the match with Bloomington, anticipated as one of the toughest matches of the season for the Warriors, 39-18. Eisenhower, in its opening match of the year, lost to Granite City 39-6. Bloomington downed Eisenhower 44-6.

The Bloomington match remained closer than the score indicates as going into the final three matches, Granite City held only a 25-18 edge. A pin by Bloomington would have brought the team scores within one point.

3 Straight Wins
In that sweep a 14-1 win by Phil Lapinski (105) was followed by a 12-0 decision for John Niebur (112) to put the Warriors out of reach. A pin by Kerry Johnson (119) in 3:13 put the icing on the cake.

The Warriors won eight matches against Bloomington and lost four. Other winners and their match scores or times for pins were: Dennis Ragan (126), 14-0; Dave Rushing (138), won by default; Ken Nolan (150), 3-30; Avedisian (185), 3-30; and McMillan (heavyweight), 1-54. Schooley (187) won by default as his opponent was injured during the competition. Schooley led 62 when the match was called.

Decision winners for the Warriors were Lapinski (105), 8-1; Niebur (112), 13-0 and Rushing (138), 10-4. Hawkins (148) had the only loss. He was pinned in 3:04.

3 Year Streak
The Warrior 25 dual streak extends back through the 1970-71 season in which the team won the last three meets. Last year, Granite City was undefeated in dual meets with 18 victories.

The Granite City squad will travel to Edwardsville Friday where the sophomores will battle at 6:30 p.m. and junior varsity and varsity matches will begin simultaneously at 7:30 p.m.

The Warriors will host Normandy Saturday with sophomores, junior varsity and varsity competition starting at 1 p.m.

Bi-County's Young Meet
The Bi-County YMCA won a swimming meet for eight-year-olds and under in St. Louis Saturday under a field of 16 teams.

David Becherer of Granite City participated in a free-style points to win last coming in second.

Warriors Fail from Field, Red Birds Win by 74-46

"When you get 14 more chances at the basket than your opponents and can't score, you're going to lose ball games," Granite City High School Basketball Coach Don Detorring commented after his Warriors lost to Alton 74-46 Friday night in a game here.

It was the worst loss for the Warriors since February 1968 when Belleville Altoff defeated them 47-37.

GCMS made 54 field goal attempts but sank only 19 for 35%, while Alton hit 28 out of 40 attempts for 70%.

"It boils down to a very simple rule in basketball, and that is you have to put the ball through the basket to score points, and you need to score points to win ball games," Detorring lamented.

The Warriors committed 25 fouls to 15 for Alton in the conference opener. Alton, with 6-3 Bart Harrison and 6-4 Craig Nilson, dominated the backboards 35-22.

"When your team has no real height you have to sink the ball on the first attempt or you're not going to get a second chance," Detorring said.

Harrison was high point man in the game with 20, followed by Warrior Tom Peterson with 17. "Peterson did a fine job the second half but was not too great that first half. He will probably turn out to be our most consistent hitter," Detorring noted.

"We lost Gary Lively in the second quarter when he hurt his right knee. He hurt his left knee in football and this will probably take him out of action for the rest of the season," Detorring added.

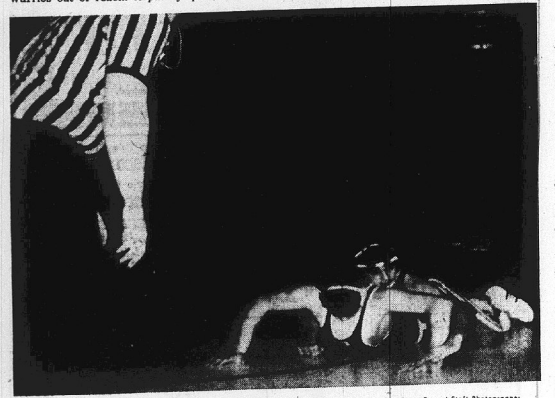

The line score by quarters for Alton was 10-31-32-74 and for GCMS it was 10-21-30-46.

Warrior scoring, in addition to Peterson, were Mike Martinez 11, Brett Champion and Mark Gauen 4, Tom Vrenick 3, and Lively, Greg Gauen and Gene Logus 2.

The GCMS junior varsity lost to Alton 50-30. Gene Logus was top JV point-maker with 16.

The Warriors will travel to Quincy Friday where they will meet another tall team with a front line of 6-7, 6-5, 6-4. Belleville will visit the Warriors Saturday. West is the only team in the conference that is about the same size as the Warriors.

Madison High School's basketball Trojans are now 3-1 as they handed Central of St. Louis a 63-55 defeat on the Trojan floor Friday.

The first quarter ended with the Trojans behind 12-9 but they rallied and outscored Central 21-17 for a half-time lead score of 30-29. The Trojans led it with 17 points in the third quarter and insured it with 16 in the final two stanzas while Central scored 9 and 17 in the last two quarters.

Central had 24 of 70 field goal attempts for 30% while MHS was 23 of 56 for 47%.

It was a "four" night for Central which committed 30 fouls, giving the Trojans 18 points from the charity line. Madison erred 16 times and Central took seven charity points.

Trojan Anthony Matthews and Central's Wade Johnson shared scoring honors with 21 points each.

Other Trojans scoring were Rudolph Bradley 16, Jerry Bedford, 10, Charles Lucas 7, Chris Stanley 5, Roger Glasper 3 and Kevin Boyd 2.

Matthews led off the boards with 12 as the Trojans will go to Cahokia and Saturday they will be at Gibault of Waterloo.

La. Tech. Beat UMSL Cougar Cagers Bow to

The debut of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team to Kiel Auditorium against top-ranked Louisiana Tech started out as if Coach Jim Dudley's Cougars were bent on upsetting the southern invaders Saturday night.

But it wasn't to be as Louisiana Tech, one of the nation's top-rated college division teams, won 89-67 after the Cougars had captured a 76-68 victory over the University of Missouri Thursday night.

After six minutes of play the upstart Cougars led the Tech Bulldogs and their All-American star, Mike Green, 8-5. Even with four minutes to go in the first half, the Cougars trailed by only five points, 33-28. And then it happened.

Cougar rebounding power Leon Wright suffered a broken nose and a concussion, which sidelined him for the rest of the game. It was teammate Tom Johnson who inflicted the injury with an elbow.

At the same time the Cougars suddenly went cold, missing eight-eight of their final shots in the half as Tech forged to a 38-25 lead at the intermission.

Johnson, who at 6-0 was badly beaten in height by Green's 6-10, nevertheless scored 21 points to the Bulldogs ace's 24. Others aiding the Cougar cause were Terry Carlson with 14 points; Thurman Ferree and Rudy Thorneburg 8, San Holmes, Jerry Blaudow and Roy Withoff 4, Wright 3, Frank Ramsey 2 and Nelson 1.

The Cougars hit only 29 of 78 shots from the field as Tech bucketed 39 of 75. From the free-throw line it was 9 of 10 for SIUE and 13 of 14 for Tech.

as officials called 16 fouls against the winners.

The loss dropped Dudley's charges to 2-2 while Tech's record is now 6-1, the defeat coming at the hands of the University of Missouri at Columbia early in the season.

The Cougars took an early lead over UMSL and hung on at the UMSL field house Thursday night, using stalling tactics late in the game for the 76-68 victory.

The score was 53-39 at the half in favor of the Cougars who dealt the UMSL Rivermen their first loss in their building which opened a year ago.

Johnson paced the Cougars with 23 points, while Thorneburg, coming off of the bench, added 15. Contributing to the point total were Ferree with 10, Carlson 8, Wright 7, and Hutchison and Holmes, 6 each. Kevin Brennan of Collinsville topped UMSL scoring with 15 points.

Dudley's men outshot the Rivermen 30 to 26 from the field. The Cougars picked up 18 points from the free-throw line while UMSL matched it in 23 attempts.

In a preliminary event, the SIUE Jayvees defeated UMSL 81-65. Ron Roundtree, a 6-2 freshman guard from Pepp, paced the winners with 23 points.

It was a second victory with UMSL's loss for the young Cougars.

The SIUE varsity will resume action on Friday in a game with the University of Wisconsin, Parkside, at Kenosha.

The Cougars then will be in Chicago to play Northeastern Circle Monday.

Warrior Cage Team to Play In Pontiac Holiday Tourney

The 42nd annual Pontiac High School Holiday Basketball Tournament, slated for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 27, 28 and 29, again looms as a free-for-all battle for the 1972 Century Bowl, which is emblematic of the local tournament championship.

Rock Island Alleman is the defending champion, following a thrill-packed 98-58 victory over the Waukegan Bulldogs in last year's championship game. Alleman returns with a strong team built around three regulars.

High scoring Lockport Central, featuring All-State candidate 6-5 Junior Ellis "Pokey" Files and accurate shooting 6-2 senior guard Alvin Green, has been installed as the pre-tournament favorite. The Porters have been averaging 92.7 points per game in their first three outings.

Other quintets receiving considerable backing in the pre-tournament speculation are last year's runner-up Waukegan, who recently snapped defending state Class A champion Thorndike's 38-game winning skein; LaSalle-Peru, Aurora West and Glenbard West.

Two new schools have been added to this year's tournament roster. Hershey of Arlington Heights, featuring a double post combine consisting of 6-11 Junior Dave Corzine and 6-8 senior Greg Hale, is rated as one of the top darkhorses in the tournament. New Trier East of Winnetka, returning after a 14-year lapse, is the other new team. The last time coach John Schneider had a team in the Pontiac meet in 1961 his Stephen Decatur team continued on to win the state title.

Other teams returning to battle for the title are Quincy Catholic, Granite City, Cairo, Sistrator, who died unexpectedly in late January, after directing one of Pontiac's most successful holiday tournaments. Pontiac has announced that the pairings for the 42nd tournament will be released tomorrow.

NCAA Champion Cougars Jubilant Over 1-0 Soccer Victory Over Oneonta State

The international collegiate soccer championship returned to the United States Saturday afternoon at Cougar Field when the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville kickers defeated Oneonta State University of New York, 1-0, before 3,000-plus brave fans in a driving and freezing rain.

The Cougars' victory over the New Yorkers was in the finale of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's first national college soccer division final. Oneonta State, coached by Garth Stam, had advanced to the shot at the national title by beating Chico State of California, 6-0, Thursday morning at Cougar Field.

Cougar Coach Rob Guelker's Cougars had earned their right to play in the final by eliminating high-scoring University of Baltimore, 4-1, the same day.

The international flavor of Saturday's championship game grows out of the fact that 10 of Oneonta State's regular starters are foreign or foreign-born players.

All but two, and that pair is from Illinois, of the SIUE soccer team are native St. Louisians. Only non-St. Louisian, Norm Seim plays regularly but doesn't start and he's from Collinsville. He, however, looms large in Cougar hopes for the future.

Bitterly Fought Whatever the composition of the two teams, it was a real championship battle and the fans witnessed a bitterly-fought soccer game. Either team could have won and neither would have been embarrassed to lose to the other. It was that close.

In fact, the discipline of the SIUE players as compared to the more individualistic style of the Oneonta (foreign) kickers probably gave the Cougars their victory.

Chris Carenza, who led the Cougars this season in scoring, blasted in the winning goal at seven minutes into the second half. He took a back-footed pass from defensive star, Dennis Driscoll, and completely fooled Oneonta's great goalie, Steve Plinski. The winning score was set up further up field when Tom Twellman at the outside left spot fooled his defender and crossed to Driscoll. In a similar spot the Oneonta players seemed always to attempt to solo it.

Most Valuable Oneonta State's star, Farrukh Quraishi, was named the tourney's most valuable defensive player and Cougar freshman stand-out, John Stremleau, was picked as the meet's MV offensive star. Stremleau scored three goals for the Cougars against the University of Baltimore.

However, for most of the 3,000 fans who witnessed Saturday's title game by far the most valuable defensive player, at least in the title game, had to be Cougar senior goalie Rick Benben.

Benben's performance was nothing less than sensational. He's made a lot of terrific "saves" in the past three seasons, but none could compare with the one he made at 4½ minutes into the first half when Carlos Comacho soloed in on Benben and let fire at point-blank range. Rick, playing as if he has ice water in his veins, held his ground and made a sensational stop the crowd could hardly believe their eyes. It was that type of play... unbelievable... fantastic.

Shot Goes Wild Again, after the two teams had battled to a scoreless first half, Comacho again bore in on a breakaway at three minutes into the final 45 minutes. This shot grew out of the slippery and icy condition of the field. The Cougars' All-American candidate (along with Kevin Howe), Vince Fassi, slipped and fell on the frozen turf to let Comacho drive in all alone in Benben. This time, instead of waiting for a teammate to come up, Comacho blasted his shot on goal. It was wide.

SIUE racked up 35 shots on goal to Oneonta's 31, but in the final half, the losers actually outshot the Cougars 12-5. Stremleau, the SIUE freshman, shoved in three goals in the Cougars' 4-1 victory Thursday over Baltimore University in the semi-final event.

The sleek Cougars breezed through the Baltimore Bees and set up a defense that stopped Baltimore's Dennis Hresko. Stremleau's first goal came when Galati passed to Cacciaro, who in turn found the ace in a sound position for the shot in the left corner after 25 minutes of the game.

The second goal came 1½ minutes later as Stremleau scored from close in on a pass from Galati. Stremleau staged a fake and a flip shot went over the head of Bees' goalie Rich Mellendick.

His third goal came 4½ minutes later on a pass from scoring action after 70 minutes on a rebound of a shot by full-back Steve Elliott.

Galati was credited with sparking the Cougar action after he came in from the bench, while defensive efforts by Elliott, Denny Driscoll, Kevin Fassi and Vince Fassi held Baltimore at bay.

In the first semi-final game, Oneonta State put its New York City school on the map in an easy 6-0 whitewash over Chico State of California.

David North and Farrukh Quraishi each scored twice and Ferando Tild added another for the winners.

Stevenson Seeks Airport Action

Pressure in favor of an Illinois site for a new major St. Louis metropolitan area airport may soon be brought to bear on the U.S. Department of Transportation by U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois.

In a Washington press conference, Stevenson said he intends to write shortly to the DOT urging a prompt decision for the Waterloo-Columbia site in Illinois. DOT "should make a decision and make it in favor of Illinois," he asserted.

Stevenson also said that, to the best of his knowledge, there is unanimous support among federal experts in aviation and in the aviation industry for the Illinois site.

"All studies say the Illinois site will be best," he said.

State Investments to Offset Corn, Soybean Harvest Loss

State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon announced Friday he has allocated $25 million in state funds for deposit in interest-bearing time accounts with Downstate Illinois banks that agree to make loans to farmers hard hit by the season's disastrous crop harvest.

The harvest failure program, Treasurer Dixon said, will enable banks to assist individual farmers who have been unable to harvest all of their crops because of heavy rainfalls.

The wet fields made work impossible and later near-freezing temperatures have taken a toll of corn and soybeans still unharvested.

For many farmers, Dixon said, "installment loan payments are due now on farm equipment and they must borrow money to meet the payments. The problem is that funds simply are not available to meet these demands."

Dixon emphasized that his program involves no outlay of state funds, but will aid farmers by a simple shift in investments. All funds held by the treasurer, whether state or federal, are currently invested at interest.

Meanwhile, predicted, the harvest failure program "can restore vitality to many farming communities that would otherwise suffer economically" from the current farm situation.

The treasurer noted that for some years, the office of state treasurer in Illinois has aided taxpayers through investment of public funds, putting money to work to generate revenue for the state and, at the same time, accomplishing other goals.

Besides achieving maximum earnings, the investment programs have aimed at stimulating areas of the state's economy, spreading state funds across a wide geographic base, and also benefiting needy and deprived citizens.

In past years, Dixon recalled, state funds have been loaned to provide loan funds to terminated and flood victims. A similar program recently aided rural communities where corn blight had struck.

"We are able to commit these funds from now through March 1973," the treasurer said, "as money that can be withdrawn from other investment programs."

"We believe the plight of Illinois farmers merits our attention at this time, especially since the harvest failure program is a method by which state funds can be utilized to help citizens without actual expenditure of any state money. "Simply by shifting planned investments, we hope to assist individuals and communities through a difficult period," Dixon concluded.

Many Fail to Halt at Stopped School Buses

A survey by the state education office shows motorists are ignoring traffic laws designed to protect children getting on and off school buses.

Michael J. Bakalis, superintendent of public instruction, has expressed concern for student safety after a spot check of school bus drivers indicated 50,000 to 100,000 daily violations of the passing laws in Illinois.

Adequate safe school transportation is one of the citizen priorities contained in "Action Goals for the Seventies," a publication outlining a program for improving the state's education system.

The "Rules of the Road" drivers' manual states: "You must always stop before reaching a school bus which has stopped to load or unload passengers."

"Warning will be given at least 100 feet in advance (200 feet in rural areas) by the flashing red lights on the front and rear of the bus."

"You must stop when overtaking or meeting a stopped school bus from either direction, except where highways are separated in the center by median strips."

"It is not necessary to stop for a school bus on a controlled access highway if the bus is in a loading zone at a place where pedestrians are not permitted to cross."

"After stopping you may proceed if the bus driver signals you to do so or if the flashing lights are turned off."

Many drivers apparently are ignoring the law's clear language and are passing school buses stopped to load or unload children, the survey showed.

Bakalis echoed concerns of parents, educators and school bus drivers in saying, "Children hurrying to catch a bus or get home may be careless and run into oncoming traffic. Handicapped children may not hear or see cars in time to get out of the way. The safety of our children depends on motorists obeying the law."

The superintendent said his staff is working with the Illinois Department of Transportation and the state Department of Law Enforcement to strengthen laws on school bus safety.

Bakalis urged all persons to help make school transportation safer by obeying traffic laws, driving alertly and reporting violations.

Walker to Meet On Problems of State's Retarded

Governor-elect Daniel Walker will meet with community mental retardation executives on Friday, Dec. 15, to discuss his plans for improving care and services for the state's 330,000 retarded children and adults.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Illinois Association for the Mentally Retarded for directors and legislative chairmen of its 80 local affiliated groups throughout the state.

Purpose of the meeting, which will be held at the Sheraton Hotel in Chicago, will be to prepare the membership and staff of community associations for the retarded for the 1973 session of the Illinois legislature. Proposed legislation and unmet needs of the retarded will be discussed.

Don Moss, executive director of the IAMR, said there could be a major reorganization of the state's service delivery system and purchase-care for the retarded.

"A special committee of the Illinois House of Representatives is presently studying the possibility of adopting a system similar to that of California," he said.

"Under that system, retardation services, funding and administration are completely separated away from those for the mentally ill."

"There also is a decentralization of state purchase of private care which gives more responsibility to the communities."

During his campaign for election, Walker often indicated interest in the state's role in services for the retarded, either

Fuel Taxes Available For Boat Access Areas

By RAY SERATI
Copley News Service

Springfield — Local governmental agencies should begin applying for Illinois motor fuel taxes to be used in the construction of boating access areas and facilities, it was pointed out here today.

Local-level agencies should make their applications to the Illinois Conservation Department by Jan. 1.

The applications are to cover funds to be used for construction work to be carried out in fiscal 1974, which runs from July 1, 1973 to June 30, 1974.

The department's chief engineer, Roy J. Geiselman, has the application forms and any information which might be requested by local officials.

The local governmental units that usually apply for the funds range from municipalities to conservancy districts.

or direct or through a purchase-care arrangement.

The directors with whom he will meet are in charge of direct service programs, such as day centers for severely retarded and vocational training and sheltered workshops for all adult retarded.

They also are responsible for developing a full array of community services, including prevention programs. Each year in Illinois, 7,000 babies are born who will eventually be diagnosed as mentally retarded.

The money which is sent to the governmental units comes from the Illinois Boating Fund Act. Money going into the fund is a percentage taken from the fuel taxes for marine use, when a boater purchases fuel for his boat, a certain part goes to the Boating Fund Act.

In the past, this fund has been totaling around $1 million.

Conservation Department Director Henry N. Barkhausen has pointed out that the funds will be allocated to the local governmental units on a priority basis.

Guidelines have been established by the Department to help determine the priority of each proposed project.

In general, the guidelines cover the need for a proposed facility, the possible use of the proposed facility and the feasibility in constructing the project. The project proposals are reviewed by the department's engineering and long-range planning sections.

Some of the projects for which the money may be used include boat launching areas, access roads, parking areas, sanitary facilities and channel improvements.

After such facilities are constructed, it is up to the local unit to maintain them.

In China, family ties are probably the strongest of any people on earth, dating back thousands of years. One of the reasons of course is their worship of ancestors.

When a young man decides to leave his native village and go to another part of the world, it is customary for him to marry before departing. It is not necessary for him to take his wife with him because she will always be the only wife recognized for him by the village elders. And though he may marry again, as each child is born, it is registered in the home village registry as an offspring of the original marriage.

The wandering husband must continue to send money to his left wife in the village and he must also pay a handsome fee to the registry for its official documentation of his children. Frequently he never returns, but the record of his family remains in the village of his ancestors.

Accusers are great to hang on the wall, but Hudson's likes the way our brides and grooms become efficient and capable partners — the American Way. And come to think of it, it's so grand to start planning your lovely treasures in Sterling, China and Crystal now — Hudson's. Your own Bridal Register will help guide your friends — then with proper budgeting an Hudson's divided payment plan. If you desire, you may have Dinner for Eight, with all the elegance of your perfectly coordinated table set — Hudson Jewellers for Gifts, Hudson Jewellers for YOUR WEDDING PLANS! Do come in soon!

'Fizz' Gone from Campaign Against Throw-away Bottles

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

The fizz seems to have gone out of the campaign against throw-away bottles and cans in Illinois.

Several months ago, the Pollution Control Board scheduled a series of public hearings on the proposal, which would require a nickel deposit on each can and bottle containing alcoholic beverages or soft drinks, sold in the state.

Though the can and bottle industries were against the move, it apparently found a good deal of support among ecology enthusiasts and anti-pollution persons.

At one time, petitions bearing some 1,500 signatures, all supporting the plan, were presented to the PCB.

As it developed, some other people were against it—people like supermarket owners, for instance, who objected to being forced into the bottle business, having to store empties, handle them, collect deposits and pay out refunds.

The forces against the plan got an injunction to prevent the PCB's hearings. Eventually, the injunction was thrown out, in support of the control board's position that the proper time for court action would be after some stand had been taken, not while it was still merely under consideration.

The PCB members then reset the hearings and braced themselves, figuring that after the delay, even more public support for the plan would be felt.

One spokesman for the Institute for Environmental Quality said the newly scheduled hearings were expected to be the most heavily attended in the group's history.

Instead, where hundred had clamored to testify for the plan a year ago, only a handful responded when the new hearing dates were announced — and some of those are industry spokesmen who will, obviously, speak against it.

Among those being asked to give their experiences with similar controls are officials from Oregon, which adopted a "bottle bill" that went into effect Oct. 1.

Reportedly, in Oregon, bottles are being returned at a rate double that of the period before the law became effective.

Community to Share in Children's Yule Tree

Gaily decorated packages tied with colorful ribbons containing wearing apparel and a variety of toys designed to please any youngster are being placed this week beneath a large Christmas tree in the lobby of the First Granite City National Bank.

All the packages are destined for less fortunate children of the Quad-City area at Christmastime and will be distributed through the Salvation Army.

So far, the gifts surrounding the brilliantly lighted 15-foot tree have been contributed by First Granite City National Bank employees.

Starting today, however, the public is invited to join in the "joy of sharing" by bringing a gift for the tree, or placing it underneath the tree for delivery by Salvation Army personnel, Bank officials said.

If the package is wrapped, the donor may write on an accompanying tag whether its contents are suitable for a boy or a girl, a suggested age level if the gift is a toy, or size in wearing apparel, a spokesman for the bank explained.

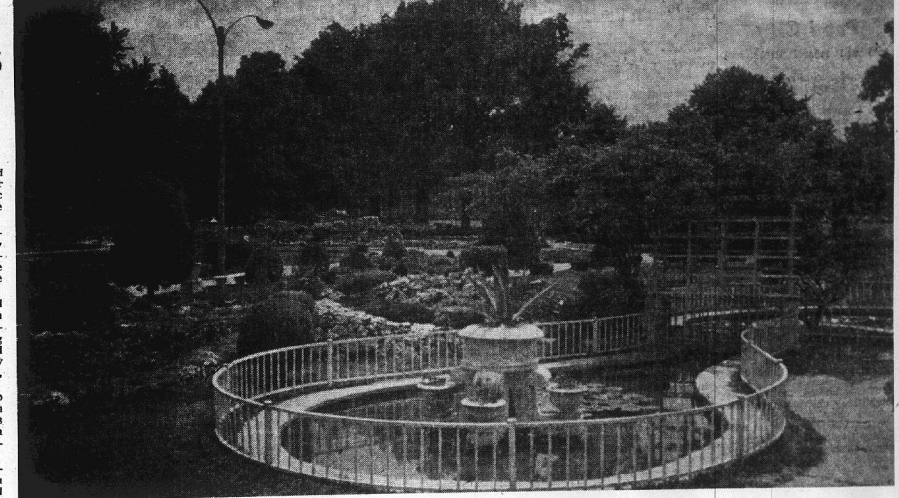

"Strangers come bearing gifts for the Christ Child on their Christmas, thus began the warm tradition of holiday giving. This year, we are trying to evoke the spirit of that first Christmas," the First National officer said in issuing an invitation to area residents to participate in the Yulide project.

IF WINTER COMES—CAN SPRING BE FAR BEHIND? This warm-weather view of the Wilson Park formal gardens and lily pond is featured on its 1973 calendar by the First Granite City National Bank.

Sieveking Gardens on 1st National Calendar

Granite City PRESS-RECORD
Mon., Dec. 11, 1972 Page 9

A full color photograph showing the formal gardens and lily pond in Wilson Park is featured on the First Granite City National Bank's 1973 home calendar.

It is the first year First National has used a local community scene to beautify its calendar, a concept intended to start a continuing tradition.

First Bank officials said local historical landmarks and beauty spots will play a prominent part on calendars offered patrons by the bank in future years.

The initial scene, photographed by Harry Fichte of Granite City, spotlights the Sieveking Gardens, an area in Wilson Park named in honor of Ernest Sieveking, the first superintendent of parks in Granite City.

Mr. Sieveking worked to beautify the Wilson Park area from its early beginning in 1922 and, after retirement, he continued to serve in an emeritus state, advising the park district on subsequent improvements until his death in November 1962.

A Labor of Love

Gardening and culture of flowers was a "labor of love" with Mr. Sieveking, who was largely responsible for laying out the formal gardens in Wilson Park and built much of the stone work himself.

In the early years, he cultivated most of the park floral arrangements from seeds and cuttings.

He designed and constructed the sunken rock garden in the area of the old sand-bottom swimming pool, selecting many unusual rock formations from the surrounding countryside — and bringing some from deep in the Missouri Ozarks to enhance the area.

The rock garden, shown on the calendar, is dedicated in his name and is preserved and maintained in its original state.

state and federal EPA's and the city working together, a satisfactory solution to the tie-ups can be worked out.

"Rather than looking at the past, I would like to see what can be done in the future to alleviate these problems," he asserted.

While indicating he understood the city's problems on construction of the plant, Romanek took the stand against the city's failure to provide interim chlorination of sewage during the period of planning and construction of the secondary sewage facility.

Chlorination facilities were to have been in operation by July 1, a deadline which the city made no attempt to meet. He was charged at the hearing. Scroggins said the city decided not to install chlorination facilities before the plant was constructed because the chlorination function would be done by the proposed plant.

"We estimated the cost of establishing chlorination at the present plant at $50,000. After completion of the secondary treatment plant, the interim chlorination facility would have to be abandoned."

"It does not seem practical to put that in when we are about to embark upon the expensive secondary treatment plant. The citizens should not have to spend this much money on a facility that would be part of the secondary treatment plant," the attorney said.

Haller added that, in addition to the cost of constructing the interim chlorination facility, the taxpayers would have to pay about $175 per day for gas chlorine.

He said alternate methods of interim treatment were studied but all proved to be even more expensive than chlorination.

The hearing officer, in his summary, commented, "It seems you might consider the expense (of chlorination), even up to $50,000, would be warranted."

Stanley C. Smith, 2224 Missouri Ave.; Ida M. Kilner, 2815 Buxton Ave.; Esther V. Jeffries, Staunton, Ill.; and Lydia Herschbach, East St. Louis.

chief of the enforcement division of the U. S. EPA, Region V, added that the secondary treatment plant was constructed because the chlorination function would be done by the proposed plant.

"This is an excessive time to go without chlorination," Schenzel extended. Romanek responded, "It would be our view that you effect some kind of treatment before the plant will not be operational until the end of 1974."

The charges against the city were presented by David P. Welch, a sanitary engineer with the federal EPA.

At the end of the hearing, Romanek said that he and Welch will continue to work with the city in an effort to solve its problems.

He set an informal meeting with city officials for Jan. 4 to further study the issue and to see what steps have been taken between Thursday's meeting and Jan. 4.

"We will continue meeting periodically as often as is necessary to solve our problems," he commented.

Scroggins told Romanek after the meeting that the city will urge the IPCC to hold a hearing on the city's deadline variance requests before Jan. 4 so that some concrete progress may be shown at that meeting.

versity, but SUE is considering purchasing the campus.

"We would like the institute to deal directly with the problem of the St. Louis and Illinois metropolitan area," Holderman said.

"Though the plan for Parks College is separate from the Ph.D. program, we believe such an institute would be complementary to this cooperative program."

The Rev. Paul C. Reinert, president of St. Louis University, said the cooperative Ph.D. program is an example of planning carried out by several years by the Higher Education Coordinating Council, an organization of educational institutions in this region of Illinois and the St. Louis area of Missouri.

"Both public and private institutions must learn to plan together to make more efficient use of the limited resources of the area," he is expected to provide in the years ahead," Rev. Reinert said.

He said that although St. Louis University has had good Ph.D. programs, they will enhance their quality.

"There are certain areas in which we have a comparative advantage," he said. "When you put three facilities together, you have a potential that is perhaps unequalled."

The St. Louis University faculty is very enthusiastic because everyone is concerned about the future of doctoral work at private institutions; such high-level education is very expensive per student."

William H. Danforth, Washington University chancellor, and the program makes sense economically.

"Many people today are talking about planning to use resources for the best interests of the students and the taxpayers, but it's difficult to develop these programs," Danforth said.

"It's particularly important that we not duplicate expensive graduate education. In this proposed opportunity to implement programs designed to accomplish these purposes."

Danforth said such a program could become "a very important national model."

He said Washington University faculty members are "extremely excited" about contracting for Ph.D. education because funding of graduate programs has fallen off in recent years.

Holderman said the Board of Higher Education will be watching the program to see if similar programs can be adapted to other parts of Illinois, especially Chicago.

"The plan is the best, most economical way to develop

WHO "OWNS" YOUR PRESCRIPTION

This is a question that many people are unsure about the answer. When your doctor hands you your prescription, you then become the owner and have the choice of having it filled by any licensed pharmacist you may wish to select.

Once presented to the pharmacist you have chosen, he becomes the custodian of that prescription and it goes into his files. Sometimes, your doctor has indicated that you must return to a certain specified time have that prescription again and you may ask the pharmacist to get a "your" prescription out from the file and refill it for you. We carefully follow the laws, the doctors' instructions and your wishes.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

March of Dimes Campaign to Be Held in January

Mrs. Glen Chaboude, chairman of the Granite City March of Dimes Committee, announced today that the drive for prevention and the elimination of birth defects will take place during the month of January in 1973.

"The goal of the National Foundation is to search out the secrets of genetics and environmental diseases that cut short or grievously impair the lives of thousands of children — to give every baby its birthright, the right to a healthy, vigorous start in life, with a program of prevention."

"This can be accomplished through research, prenatal care, education and treatment, but only with the generous help of the community," the chairman said.

City Clerk Robert Stevens and his wife will serve as co-chairmen of the campaign.

Mrs. Joseph Klesh is in charge of the Mothers' March. Mrs. Paul Schuler will direct solicitation in schools.

Mrs. Jeff Chaboude is to handle special gifts. Junior Mathis will head a committee to place canisters and coin boards in stores and public buildings.

William F. Kinder will serve as chairman of special events, and Allen Joesse, executive vice-president of the American National Bank, is treasurer.

A kickoff for the entire Quad-City area is planned for Jan. 6 with a "walkathon." Harry Cook Jr., who is advisor to the student council at Granite City High School, is chairman of this event.

It's Not the Cold—It's the Chill Index

The first zero and near-zero temperatures of the season have sent Illinois residents scurrying for extra blankets and warm coats and scarves.

But the temperature on the thermometer doesn't tell the whole story. Winter winds can make the temperature seem much lower than what the thermometer shows.

For example, when the thermometer stands at zero and there's a 10-miles-per-hour wind blowing, the chill-index temperature to exposed skin is 21 degrees below zero. If the wind is blowing 15 miles an hour, the chill index temperature is 36 below. At 20 miles per hour, it's 39 below.

University of Illinois Extension Safety Specialist Ordie Haggert says the chill-index temperature combines the thermometer reading with the wind velocity factor and results in a measure that is closer to the temperature the body feels.

On a relatively "warm" winter day—when the thermometer reaches 20 degrees F—a 20-mile-per-hour wind lowers the chill-index temperature to minus 10 degrees F.

It's no wonder people often complain, "It feels colder than that"—whatever the thermometer shows.

Haggert's advice is to dress according to the chill-index temperature rather than the thermometer reading. "You'll be more comfortable if you do."

Number of Stolen Vehicles Recovered Has Grown to 122

An auto theft ring which was broken Oct. 20 when a man observed his stolen car on a used car lot in Alton, is proving to be a large operation. Detective Gene Mehrtens of the Illinois State Police told the Press-Record Friday.

The investigation is being led by Mehrtens, under the supervision of Capt. Clyde Oliver, commander of the state Detective Section, and Sgt. Julius Luber, District 25 State Police, Maryville. The state police are supplementing their investigation unit with other state police auto theft investigators from other zones and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"The majority of these vehicles were in the possession of innocent purchasers," Mehrtens said. He added, "All of the stolen vehicles have on them in common; they were all stolen in St. Louis or St. Louis County."

Investigation of the first stolen car led to the Patterson Auto Sales Co., East Alton, which had purchased another 43 stolen cars from a James Durham, 36, of Cottage Hills. Durham was placed under arrest and has since posted bond. Mehrtens predicts that more arrests will follow.

Economic Condition Studied In Southern Illinois Counties

By PETE BROWN
SIU News Service

Eleven years ago the United States government set out to do something about economic conditions in the so-called depressed areas of the country.

It defined them as places where population was going down, people were moving out (particularly the young), income growth was below national averages, unemployment was up, educational expenditures were substandard, and the labor force was under par, and a few other things.

Congress approved a package of acts designed to help depressed areas put themselves eye-level with everybody else. You had the Area Redevelopment Act, the Public Works Acceleration Act, the Public Works and Economic Development Act.

You had Roman numeral titles tacked on EDA, under various forms of which you had federal money for public works, technical assistance, loans, regional development organizations.

By the end of the 27 displayed all those characteristics and so escaped or declined the overtures of assistance. But—of the $22 million given to Illinois in grants alone, under one act alone, about $7 million went to 13 counties in the south.

After a decade and more of federal help programs, a good question one might ask is, "has it done any good?"

An economics student at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Al Majidi, asked it, but he went well beyond the general. In fact, he turned to a 144-page doctoral dissertation about the impact of federal assistance programs on Southern Illinois.

He went about asking the questions this way: "Break out the 27-county area into three study groups: those counties that received federal help (Franklin, Jefferson, St. Clair, Williamson) under both the Area Redevelopment Act and Public Works and Economic Development Act—those that were eligible for assistance but didn't get it (Edwards, Gallatin, Hamilton, Wayne)—and, finally, those that simply weren't depressed enough to be eligible for aid (Clay, Lawrence, Washington). The other counties got some money from one or the other programs, but not both, so were left out of the study."

He found that the counties that showed the sharpest loss of working-age people in the 1960-70 decade were those that got federal aid. Total personal income went up percentage-wise, more sharply in the counties that were eligible for aid but didn't get it. The rate was lowest in the aid-receiving counties (called "ER").

Income Rises
Per capita income for the ER group rose 49% in the 10-year period. But it went up 59% in the non-eligible group and 81% in the eligible but no-aid counties.

Overall non-agricultural employment rose slightly in the entire region between 1960-70, but the increase (31%) again was highest in the two groups that got no federal dollars. It went up only 17% in the ER group. (Majidi does attribute much of the difference, however, to the loss of 1,200 jobs when Williamson County's Sangamo Electric Plant closed.)

Quarterly gains were higher in the eligible but non-aid counties. Public aid rolls declined in the ER counties, but still reflected higher population percentages on some form of "welfare."

Sales tax receipts gained more in the aid-receiving counties (16 per cent), but Majidi notes that these four counties are major shopping centers, with most of the large cities in the study group.

ER Slightly Better
ER counties did do slightly better than the other groups in percentage of workers in construction, a good barometer of economic conditions. But they did not do as well as many non-aid counties in other major employment categories like transportation, public utilities, and manufacturing.

During the period when federal aid programs should have shown highest impact: 1965-1969 — unemployment rates of the aid-receiving counties did not go down appreciably.

It should be emphasized that the ER counties did slow down population losses more sharply than the others.

Much emphasis in the federal programs went to public works projects whose aim was to put people on the job right now, and provide community resources that might attract or hold employers. Majidi, concluding with others who have studied federal aid projects, says "what the population of depressed areas needs most are investments in human resources and expanded manpower programs."

Secretary of State and State Librarian John W. Lewis has announced that beginning Jan. 1, the network currently serving public libraries will be open to Illinois academic libraries for interlibrary loan purposes.

In order to participate in the network, academic institutions must (1) agree to maintain minimum level of library funding by not reducing the total library budget or the library materials budget below the 1972-73 level, the 1972-73 level, or an average of the two year's level, whichever is low.

Another objective is to have the radio-activity measurement capability of the state, licensee and AEC laboratories in agreement with reasonable accuracy, with the National Bureau of Standards' Measurements System.

Yoder said data and information obtained will be shared with interested federal, state and local agencies and will be available to the public through appropriate publications.

Facilities for Handicapped
Facilities for the handicapped at four pairs of rest parks are scheduled for completion by Dec. 15, according to William P. Cellini, secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Cellini said two pairs of rest parks have already been adapted to accommodate the handicapped and that similar accommodations will be constructed in 21 pairs of rest parks planned along the Illinois Interstate system.

He said the nationally accepted symbol of a stylized wheel chair outlined in white on interstate blue will identify those parks.

He added that the department is seeking a change in signing regulations to allow placing the signs on interstate highways several miles in advance of the parks.

The same sign will designate reserved parking for the handicapped near comfort stations and where ramps will be built over curbs.

Other improvements will include drinking fountains, telephones and hand dryers at proper height for persons in wheelchairs and wide doors on toilet stalls to accommodate their chairs.

Need Telephone Volunteers
The Illinois Department of Public Health is recruiting high school and college-age volunteers from the Springfield area to answer telephone queries regarding venereal disease.

Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, public health director, said the volunteers will not only answer callers' questions, but will refer them to appropriate help if necessary.

He said venereal disease, a good barometer of economic conditions. But they did not do as well as many non-aid counties in other major employment categories like transportation, public utilities, and manufacturing.

Sign Pact to Monitor Illinois Nuclear Plants

Representatives of the state and the Atomic Energy Commission have signed a contract for a cooperative program of environmental and effluent monitoring in and around several nuclear power plants in Illinois.

Purpose of the contract, according to Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, public health director, is to provide independent measurements of radioactivity in the environment and to provide reasonable assurance that licensees' effluent analyses and environmental measurements are valid.

Another objective is to have the radio-activity measurement capability of the state, licensee and AEC laboratories in agreement with reasonable accuracy, with the National Bureau of Standards' Measurements System.

MRS. STEPHEN GLASGOW. She was married in an afternoon ceremony at St. Margaret Mary Roman Catholic Church. The bride is the former Miss Jacqueline Reinagel, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reinagel, 2211 Waterman Ave.

Couple Exchanges Vows At St. Margaret Mary's

The wedding of Miss Jacqueline Reinagel and Stephen Glasgow was solemnized Dec. 2 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at St. Margaret Mary Roman Catholic Church.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reinagel, 2211 Waterman Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Troy Glasgow, 1608 Ferguson Ave.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Robert Becker.

For her wedding, the bride chose a full length gown of white tulle, featuring a high neckline edged with Venice lace and full bishop sleeves. The slightly gathered skirt was bordered with matching rows of lace.

Lace motifs were applied at random on the bodice and skirt and motifs formed the cuffs. Her mantilla veil was created of Venice lace and she held a bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Miss Michelle Burgess, of Collinsville and the flower girl, Elaine Marie Reinagel, wore frocks made in similar style of pale blue chiffon over tulle and veils.

The royal blue velvet bodices had round set-in yokes of smoked chiffon, mandarin collars and renaissance sleeves gathered on either side and were formal length.

A narrow row of shaded blue Venice lace flowers defined the yoke, sleeves and collar. Each wore a velvet bow in her hair to secure pale blue nose tip veil. The honor attendant carried a bouquet of blue carnations and baby's breath and the flower girl held a basket of blue carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony.

104 Attend Party at St. Peter's

The Afternoon Guild of St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ entertained the guild members from St. John United Church of Christ and St. Paul's Bluff Church, Edwardsville, at a holiday salad luncheon Thursday in the church Fellowship Hall.

Seasonal decorations used throughout the hall created a festive atmosphere for the affair, and the 104 members and guests attending, sang several Christmas carols after the luncheon.

A musical program was furnished by a group of students from the Granite City High School, who comprise a string orchestra directed by Miss Linda Bean.

The Rev. and Mrs. Victor Frohne, assisted by Mrs. Marie Fulp, all of Wood River, presented an illustrated story of the birth of Christ, entitled "The Advent House."

In keeping with the second phase of the program, each table was decorated with a manger scene, reflecting the story theme.

It was announced that guild members participated in the hanging of greens at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, to complete the decorations in the church sanctuary.

Programs for the year were discussed and Mrs. Dorothy Line announced several guest artists will appear. Local hairdressers are invited to attend Affiliate 33 meetings held on third Monday of each month at Charlie's Restaurant.

Others elected to serve during the coming year, are: Margaret Scott, co-chairman; Dorothy Line, styles director; Marcella Tucker, assistant styles director; Joanne Prevett, secretary; Brenda Cant, treasurer; and Betty Smith, historian.

Betty Smith was welcomed as a permanent member of the committee and Brenda Cant was congratulated upon winning the first phase of the qualifying contest.

A discussion was held on cosmetologists' conventions to take place in January and February. Mrs. Cant will attend the Midwest Beauty Show at Chicago, where she will enter a hair styling competition, it was reported.

Area Women Invited to Join the 'Fun' Each Tuesday at Homemakers' Holiday

By WALTER F. STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

Would you like to get away from the kids and housework for a short time each week? Well, you can every Tuesday at the "Homemakers' Holiday" program, which started this week at the Koinonia Center, located at the corner of 24th Street and Madison Avenue, formerly the Post Home of Tri-subsequent weekly programs, Pastor Groff said. Registration is not required.

"Anyone interested in joining in the Tuesday activity should come to the center at 11 a.m.," Mrs. Eunice Hagler of the church staff, explained. The hours are roughly between 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Boys Program

On Thursday evenings, the Koinonia Center is used for a program involving boys ages 6 through 13, known as the Royal Rangers.

High school and college age youth enjoy a continental breakfast and a "rap" session each Sunday at 9:30 a.m., with participants discussing problems facing today's youth.

"As we find the need exists we will expand the services offered at the Koinonia Center," Pastor Groff stated. "Already, we have had several ladies who called during the day inquire about starting a program in the evening hours similar to the 'Homemakers' Holiday' concept," he said.

Also under review at the present time are plans to initiate a comparable program for men in the community, the minister noted.

"We want to help the people of the area in any way that we can," the Rev. Groff said.

PARENTS FOR SPECIAL EDUCATION WILL MEET

A monthly meeting of the Parents for Special Education will be held Thursday, Dec. 14, at 7 p.m. at the Special Education office, 2801 Madison Ave.

Newly-elected officers are: president, Mrs. Melba Grady; vice-president, Mrs. Kay Hone; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Llewellyn; and treasurer, Mrs. Barbara Castillo.

At the last meeting, David Parrish of Special Services addressed the group, citing the importance of the workshop in the Quad-City area. He urged interested persons to attend monthly meetings of the organization, held at the workshop, 1801 Spruce St., on the fourth Wednesday. Community support is needed in order to build a more efficient workshop, he commented.

Grady-Marks Nuptials at Calvary Baptist

Miss Deborah Ann Marks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Marks, 2906 Marshall Ave., and Private James R. Grady, U.S. Army, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Grady, 2949 Marshall Ave., exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening at Calvary Baptist Church.

The Rev. W. L. Showers performed the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock before an altar decorated with two branched candelabra holding red lighted tapers and bouquets of white mums, accented with red flowers and greenery.

Miss Brenda Bivens presided as the organ for Misses Pam Stamps and Cheryl Kinzie, who sang "The Wedding Song," "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. Marks escorted his daughter down the white carpeted aisle and gave her in marriage. She wore a full length gown of white bonded lace designed with an "old-fashioned" look.

The fitted bodice had a stand up ruffled lace collar and long tapered sleeves with ruffled cuffs. The A-line skirt terminated in a full gathered flounce and matching lace ruffles on the bodice, creating a pinafore effect, were tied at the waist with tiny satin bows.

Lace petals placed with pearls held in place a fingertip veil of imported bridal illusion and she carried a cascade of white carnations and camelias, foliated, centered with an orchid and festooned with satin ribbons and long streamers.

Miss Linda Grady, a sister of the groom, maid of honor and the flower girl, Barbie Moser, wore identical long frocks fashioned in royal blue velvet with pastel blue chiffon sleeves.

They held colonial bouquets of pink carnations centered with pink streamers.

Bridesmaids, Misses Nancy Page and Diane Moser, and Mrs. Melody Hamm, chose red velvet dresses with light pink chiffon sleeves. Their flowers were arrangements of pink carnations.

John Grady, a cousin of the groom, served as best man. Billy Grady, another cousin, Danny Marks, the bride's brother, Terry Hamm, Vernon Gann, a brother-in-law of the groom and Dennis Morris completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

She informed the group that the Red Cross bloodmobile unit will be at St. John United Church of Christ from 2 p.m. to 6:45 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 27, to receive donations.

Mrs. Leona Cartwright, leader, opened the business meeting and announced the installation of new officers who will take place at the United Methodist Women's meeting Tuesday. Patience Circle will be in charge of the lesson, she noted.

Donations were collected for five children at the Neighborhood House in East St. Louis. The money will be used to purchase Christmas gifts for the youngsters.

CHRISTMAS TIME at the Granite City Public Library. Mrs. Earl T. Glenn, a member of the Gardeners Club and chairman of the Mini-Garden Information Center at the library, puts the final touches to the Christmas tree, focal point in this year's seasonal decor. A miniature Santa and Mrs. Santa and their gift-laden sleigh are among several displays arranged by garden club members.

Yule Display Sparkles At GC Public Library

By DONNA HARTWICK
Press-Record Staff Writer

Pine cone wreaths, topiary trees, holly and ropes of holiday greenery in beautifully designed arrangements with avocado, pink and gold accents, focusing on a tall Christmas tree, decorate the Granite City Public Library for the Yuletide season. The Gardeners Club of Illinois, Inc., under the leadership of Mrs. C. E. Eads created the festive decor, with Mrs. Earl T. Glenn, Garden Center chairman, in charge of the project, assisted by Mrs. A. Malotki Jr.

In the main lobby of the library is the traditional green tree enhanced with gold satin ornaments and gold roping. Alongside the tree are unique replicas of Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus standing by a white sleigh filled with toys and gift-wrapped gifts.

A huge green circle provides an appropriate background for an extra large wreath created of naturally dried pine cones which centers the iron balustrade of the balcony. Extending from both sides of the focal arrangement are draped holly strings, festooned at intervals with elegant green velvet bows.

The Mini-Garden Information Center, a project of the Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., and sponsored locally by the Gardeners, also is attractively portrayed for the holiday season.

A delicate pink cloth applied around the hem with Christmas motifs covers the table. A gold backdrop highlights the placement of a tall green candle and cone-shaped trees adorned with colored sequins and gold braid, the latter made by the Gardeners' members.

Adding interest to the display table are several books pertaining to decorating ideas for the holiday season. A variety of candles, ribbons, wreaths and plant arrangements that can be reproduced by the homemaker are illustrated in the books.

The local Mini-Garden Center was recognized officially in December 1970. It is one of three such centers in the state.

Displays are changed each month and the central theme always stresses good horticultural practices, plus the objectives of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., Mrs. Glenn explained.

The Gardeners have extended their Christmas display beyond the mini-table to include the entire main floor of the library.

"It is our way of expressing appreciation to the library staff for their cooperation in the past year and to the patrons of the library for using the center and making it a successful endeavor," Mrs. Glenn said.

Telephone Installation Rate Hike Is Studied

Southern Bell Telephone Co. has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission to approve revised rates for installation of telephone service. Changes and other work performed at a customer's request. Specifically involved in the new rates would be increased charges for telephone service connections, moves of telephone service from one location to another and changes in the type or style of telephone.

"With these services require a trip to the customer's home or business to make the change or installation he has requested," R. Ray Shockey, vice-president of the company's Missouri-Illinois operations, said today.

"With the increased cost of labor in recent years, our charges for labor-oriented services have become too high," Shockey said. "The rates were the only choice left for us."

"Under the new schedule of rates, a service connection, charge for business customers would be $25."

The company serves 95,000 customers with 172,000 telephones in the eight Illinois exchanges of East St. Louis, Belleville, Springfield, Fulton, Lebanon, Edgemoor, New Athens and Freeburg.

Pending ICC approval, the new rates would become effective Dec. 27.
